✠ An Untitled Story

After a few of the usual Sunday evening hymns, the Parish Priest slowly stood up, walked over to the lectern and, before he gave the homily, briefly introduced a guest visitor who was at Mass that evening. In the introduction, the priest told the congregation that the guest visitor was one of his dearest childhood friends and that he wanted him to have a few moments to greet the congregation and say a few words. With that, an elderly man stepped up to the lectern and began to speak. "A father, his son, and a friend of his son were sailing off the Pacific Coast," he began, "when a fast approaching storm blocked any attempt to get back to shore. The waves were so high that, even though the father was an experienced sailor, he could not keep the boat upright, and the three were swept into the ocean as the boat capsized." The old man hesitated for a moment, making eye contact with two teenagers who were, for the first time since the Mass began, looking somewhat interested in the story. The man continued with his story. "Grabbing a rescue line, the father had to make the most excruciating decision of his life: to which boy he would throw the other end of the life line. He only had seconds to make the decision. The father knew that his son was a Christian, and he also knew that his son's friend was not. The agony of his decision could not be matched by the torrent of the waves. As the father yelled out, 'I love you, son!', he threw out the life line to the son's friend. By the time the father had pulled the friend back to the capsized boat, his son had disappeared beneath the raging swells into the black of night. His body was never recovered." By this time, the two teenagers were sitting up straight in the pew, anxiously waiting for the next words to come out of the old man's mouth. "The father," he continued, "knew his son would step into eternity with Jesus, and he could not bear the thought of his son's friend stepping into an eternity without Jesus. Therefore, he sacrificed his son to save the son's friend. How great is the love of God that He could do the same for us. Our heavenly Father sacrificed His only begotten Son so that we could be saved. I urge you to accept His offer to rescue you and take hold of the life line." With that, the old man turned and sat back down in his chair as silence filled the Church. The Parish Priest again walked slowly to the lectern and delivered a brief homily and afterwards celebrated Mass. Within minutes after the Mass, the two teenagers were at the old man's side. "That was a nice story," politely said one of the boys, "but I don't think it was very realistic for a father to give up his only son's life in the hope that the other boy would become a Christian." "Well, you've got a point there," the old man replied, glancing down at the crucifix held in his hands. Sorrow began to overtake the old man's smiling face as he once again looked up at the boys and said, "It sure isn't very realistic, is it? But I'm here today to tell you that I understand more than most the pain God must have felt to give up His only Son. For you see, I'm the man who lost his son to the ocean that day, and my son's friend that I chose to save is your priest."

God draws close to us

“God, infinitely perfect and blessed in himself, in a plan of sheer goodness freely created man to make him share in his own blessed life. For this reason, at every time and in every place, God draws close to man. He calls man to seek him, to know him, to love him with all his strength. He calls together all men, scattered and divided by sin, into the unity of his family, the Church. To accomplish this, when the fullness of time had come, God sent his Son as Redeemer and Saviour. In his Son and through him, he invites men to become, in the Holy Spirit, his adopted children and thus heirs of his blessed life. So that this call should resound throughout the world, Christ sent forth the apostles he had chosen, commissioning them to proclaim the gospel: “Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always, to the close of the age.” Strengthened by this mission, the apostles “went forth and preached everywhere, while the Lord worked with them and confirmed the message by the signs that attended it.” Those who with God’s help have welcomed Christ’s call and freely responded to it are urged on by love of Christ to proclaim the Good News everywhere in the world. This treasure, received from the apostles, has been faithfully guarded by their successors. All Christ’s faithful are called to hand it on from generation to generation, by professing the faith, by living it in fraternal sharing, and by celebrating it in liturgy and prayer.” – [Catechism of the Catholic Church, 1]

Just for a Laugh...

Kenny and Hamish were walking along a street in London when Kenny looked in a shop window and sees a sign that catches his eye. The sign read "Suits £5.00 each, Shirts £2.00 each, trousers £2.50 per pair". Kenny said to his pal, "Hamish look at the prices! We could buy a whole lot of them and when we get back to Ardrossan, we could make a fortune. When we go in I'll put on my best English accent. You stay quiet! Let me do all the talking, 'cause if they hear our accents, they will know we are from Scotland, and they'll try to rip us off." "Right y'are, Kenny. I'll keep me mouth shut," said Hamish. They go in and Kenny said in a posh voice, "Hello my good man. I'll take 50 suits at £5.00 each, 100 shirts at £2.00 each, and 50 pairs of trousers at £2.50 each." The owner of the shop said quietly, "You're from Scotland, aren't you?" "Well yes," said a surprised Kenny. "What gave it away?" The owner replied: "We're a dry-cleaners".

Prayer for Spiritual Communion

My Jesus,

I believe that you are present
in this Holy Sacrament of the altar.

I love you above all things and I passionately desire to receive you into my soul.

Since I cannot now receive you sacramentally,
come spiritually into my soul
so that I may unite myself wholly to you
now and forever. Amen.

There
was once a recluse who never left his home. The only time anyone ever visited him was when his food and supplies were delivered,
but they never came inside.
Then, one stormy winter night
when an icy gale was blowing,
he had a nervous breakdown.
He went upstairs, turned off all the lights
and went to bed.
Next morning, he had caused the deaths of several hundred people.

How?

The recluse lived in a lighthouse.
